DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sigel et al 6,569,500 in view of McComas et al 6,426,034 .

Note that Sigel et al teaches surface modification of gloss surfaces using ionization via electron beam, to reduce the gloss, and use of scanning it taught, as claimed. See column 5, first paragraph. Inherently, the electron beam does produce a localized plasma, as defined. The patent to McComas et al is applied for evidencing that automobile components can be and have been subjected to plasma treatment to effectively reduce gloss on the component surface. See paragraph 9 in the Background of the Invention. In view of this teaching it would have been obvious to modify the Sigel et al system with plasma treatment of the substrate to more effectively reduce the gloss of the component. Note that in column 1, line 32 in Sigel et al it is noted that floor coverings subject to footwear are products to be treated and this in combination with mention of vehicle component treatment in Sigel et al, would provide proper motivation to one of ordinary skill in the art to apply the method of Sigel et al to non-carpeted floor coverings, as the claims presently define, the taught plasma method capable of treating floor thermoplastic materials subjected to many intended uses.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
